

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

I moved back to the US after spending the '90s in London. the difference in the media there & here is startling. One has to work hard in the US to get comprehensive, impartial news (and sadly, most Americans don't seem to put in the effort). NPR is lightweight content, and fawning in its interview style (if you can call what they conduct interviews). We need more funding & journalistic rigour for NPR; and less corporate ownership of newspapers, TV & radio stations - not more.
